

Dr. Michaela Moravčíková
Institute for Legal Aspects of Religious Freedom
University of Trnava, Faculty of Law
Kollárova 545/10 Trnava
Slovakia 917 01

September 21, 2018

Dear Dr. Moravčíková:

Thank you for providing an internship to an Albright Fellow this summer at the Institute for Legal Aspects of Religious Freedom, University of Trnava, Faculty of Law. The Albright Institute for Global Affairs at Wellesley College was founded on the principle that global problems are complex, and to address them, we need young people trained to work cooperatively across disciplines.

When we started the Albright Institute we wanted students to have internships related to subjects that they study as part of the Institute to further their learning. Then, our hope was that students would return and share their experiences with fellow students and apply what they learned in their classrooms. That plan has worked really well.

We believe that experiential learning through internships gives the fellows the opportunity to test their skills in a real-world setting, a critical part of building that next generation of out-of-the-box thinkers.

I appreciate your support for the Albright Institute, and look forward to future partnership.

Sincerely,

Madeleine Albright

